

“On My Shelf...” w/ Michael Hunt (#5)

Our God is a writing God, therefore he chose to communicate through the written language. Our church is a reading church, therefore we read God’s will from his written word. This is an inescapable fact, that God’s people have always been and forever will be people of the Book. And, of course, there are many books available in our day – through various medium such as print and digital – inconceivable as such would’ve been before the printing press, but there is really only one book that we need to know. And that’s the holy one: the Bible.

Unfortunately, there is a growing poverty of Bible reading in the church (not to mention the world) today. But that’s not to say there isn’t a hunger for it – no, people are hungrier than ever. It’s just that some don’t know it, or don’t realize where they can satiate it; and so, instead, we have many who walk about spiritually emaciated for lack of the living water and bread of life – Christ Jesus who is the Word in the flesh. And it’s in this state that some will seek for nourishment in the wrong places. Daniel Webster once said, “If religious books are not widely circulated among the masses in this country, I do not know what is going to become of us a nation. If truth be not diffused, error will be; if God and His Word are not known and received, the devil and his works will gain the ascendancy; if the evangelical volume does not reach every hamlet, the pages of a corrupt and licentious literature will.”

But let me tell you about some other reading that could potentially be a game changer for you, reading that could profoundly change your perspective, enlighten your mind, motivate you towards maturity and development and, ultimately, enhance your walk with the Lord. God not only gave us the Bible so that we would come to know him better, but being the Giver of every good and perfect gift, he has also talented many people in this world to convey their individual thoughts – thoughts that have the power to change and impact your life. John Piper has a great perspective on this.

“There are bad reasons to turn to other writers besides the Bible. And there are good ones. One of the bad reasons we turn to other writers is that we find the Bible tame and tasteless. It is anything but tame and tasteless. One of the good reasons we turn to other writers besides the Bible is that we savor the taste of God not only in the Bible, but also in the way others savor Him. The best writers intensify our taste for the Bible, and especially for God Himself”
(from the introduction of Taste and See).

Through their books, we should allow these talented writers to take us on a journey to know God better. I know that I’m not the only person who has benefitted personally from the writings of godly people – many of the leaders here at the Brownsburg Church of Christ have too! So what I want to do in these bulletin articles is to periodically ask one of our leaders “Hey, what’s on your bookshelf?” In other words, what books have had the most profound effect on your life and why? Last time we discovered Lanny Hosfield’s top 5 (read it on our website).

We’re going to continue our series with Michael Hunt in this article. Here’s his top 5:

1. Diligently Seeking God (2002; Gary Henry).

The subtitle to this book explains it all: “Daily Motivation to Take God More Seriously”. I know I’m constantly in need of a reminder every morning of who I am, why I’m here, and Who I serve. Having a morning devotional routine is a great way to face those questions. Start by waking early, grab a cup of coffee, find a place of solitude and read your Bible. Having Gary’s devotional tag along wouldn’t hurt either!

2. Strong Fathers, Strong Daughters: 10 Secrets Every Father Should Know (2007; Meg Meeker).

I’m not sure if it’s always been this way, but today especially it seems to be difficult for fathers to connect wholesomely to their daughters. In this book, Meeker seeks to equip fathers with the tools necessary to relate to their daughters in the face of all the brick walls they’ll inevitably face as they grow. Grab a copy if you would like to improve your relationship with your daughter.

3. Waves of Change (2006; Kyle Butt and Stan Butt, Jr.).

We’ll always live in a time of revolution and inconstancy. But what happens when the tides of revolution wash up the church’s shore? Are we equipped with the tools to defend the unchangeable plans of God for his people? And do we possess the wisdom to discern accurately what can and must change to adapt to the ever evolving social and religious milieu?

4. Scriptural Elders and Deacons (1959; H.E. Phillips).

It can be exasperating to live in a confused religious world. There is such confusion over the officers of the church – what the Bible calls “overseers” and “deacons”. In this book, Phillips seeks to convey simply what the Bible teaches about the role and work of shepherds and deacons in the Lord’s church.

5. Muscle and a Shovel (2011; Michael Shank).

This story is basically Shank’s testimony of how he came to faith. After moving to the city, Shank befriends a man who really urges him to ask some tough questions regarding the typical understanding of Christianity and to analyze his own faith. After learning much about the church from his friend and studying his own Bible, he commits to Christ.

Henry David Thoreau once wrote something that has never left me: “Read the best books first, or you may not have the chance to read them at all.” So much wisdom for our lives can be gleaned from those who have gone on before, and we miss out on a lot of life’s lessons when we fail to sit at the feet of these wise men and women and the thoughts they’ve shared. Either way, the good news is that we’ll gain wisdom; life has a way of knocking some sense into us (usually). But the better news is that you can learn from the mistakes of others – without making them yourself! But, again, it might take a little reading – and a little reading, as Thoreau said, might take a little time. Are we willing?

Let me put it this way. The average person can read 300 words per minute. Conveniently, the average novel has around 300 words per page. So, we’re at a minute for every page. This means that if you commit to spending only 15 minutes a day reading, and then only five days per week, you’ll be able to read around 3,900 pages! That’s like 20 average size novels or three to four large detailed works on any subject. Fifteen minutes a day? That’s doable.

We hope you found this article encouraging and that maybe you might think to pick up some books – like Mike’s - that would help you in your journey towards a better relationship with Christ, and a better you.
