JOHN

The Gospel of John has long held a place of high honor and devotion among Christians. The profundity of its message—focusing on the mystery of the Person of Christ and the incarnation, His relationship to the Father, and the importance of belief in Christ—together with the relative simplicity of its construction makes it frequently the first portion of Scripture to be translated into another language.

Author

While the Gospel of John does not specifically designate its author, many factors support the long-held belief that he was John the apostle, the brother of James and son of Zebedee. According to 20:21, 24, this Gospel was written by “the disciple whom Jesus loved,” and, of the inner circle of Jesus’ disciples (Peter, James, and John), John is the only probable candidate. That the author was a Palestinian Jew and an eyewitness of the events he describes also supports Johannine authorship.

Early written sources and persistent tradition about the apostle John point to Ephesus as the most likely place for the origin of the Gospel. John is believed to have lived and worked in the area of Ephesus for many years, and a tomb discovered there is reputed to be his. In addition, several key terms and ideas contained in the Gospel would have been especially fitting for this area of Asia Minor.

Date

The church father Irenaeus explicitly testifies that John wrote the Gospel while residing in Ephesus (A.D. 66–98), and there is little reason to challenge a date within this period. Although some scholars in the past have argued that John’s Gospel was composed during the middle of the second century A.D., the discovery in Egypt of a papyrus fragment of the Gospel of John dating to c. A.D. 125 makes a first-century date almost certain.

Themes and Literary Structure

The Gospel of John is built around seven miracles and seven “I am” statements of Christ. The five basic sections of this Gospel are: the incarnation of the Son of God (1:1–18); the presentation of the Son of God (1:19–4:54); the opposition to the Son of God (5:1–12:50); the preparation of the disciples by the Son of God (13:1–17:26); and the crucifixion and resurrection of the Son of God (18:1–21:25).

That John’s Gospel is significantly different from the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, and Luke) has been noticed from the earliest days of church history. It is probable that John wrote after the Synoptics had been completed, and that he was aware of them. That being the case, John wrote to supplement the Synoptics and to provide a theological interpretation of the Person and work of Christ especially suited for his Hellenistic audience.

Unlike the Synoptics, which present Jesus' teaching in the form of short sayings and parables, John presents Jesus' teaching in the form of longer theological discourses: the discourse on the bread of life (6:41–59), the good shepherd and His sheep (10:1–30), the vine and the branches (15:1–8), and the priestly prayer (17:1–26). In these discourses, contrasting pairs of ideas are frequently utilized, such as light/darkness, belief/unbelief, love/hate, and earthly/heavenly. In contrast to the Synoptic Gospels' focus upon the Galilean ministry, John emphasizes events in Judea and he records three or four Passover visits by Jesus to Jerusalem.

Although the Synoptics are full of the raw material for Christological doctrine, John displays a more intense conviction of the centrality of the Person of Christ. For John, the activity of Christ is not understandable apart from the fact that He is the Messiah, the Son of God, and God Himself (1:1–18). This emphasis upon the Person of Jesus is highlighted by John's inclusion of seven "I am" sayings.¹

The "I AM" Statements

Twenty-three times in all we find our Lord's meaningful "I AM" (ego eimi, Gk.) in the Greek text of this Gospel (4:26; 6:20, 35, 41, 48, 51; 8:12, 18, 24, 28, 58; 10:7, 9, 11, 14; 11:25; 13:19; 14:6; 15:1, 5; 18:5, 6, 8). In several of these He joins His "I AM" with seven tremendous metaphors which are expressive of His saving relationship toward the world.

"I AM the Bread of life" (6:35, 41, 48, 51)

"I AM the Light of the world" (8:12)

"I AM the Door of the sheep" (10:7, 9)

"I AM the Good Shepherd" (10:11, 14)

"I AM the Resurrection and the Life" (11:25)

"I AM the Way, the Truth, the Life" (14:6)

"I AM the true Vine" (15:1, 5).
