

THE SWORD OF THE SPIRIT

Changing The Church

Sadly, many in the denominational world argue that their churches need to change to fit with modern times and ideals. For years, the Catholics, Methodists, and others, have made revisions to their doctrines and creed books to reflect changing attitudes and beliefs. However, I ask the question, does the church described in the New Testament need to change?

Jesus compared His teachings to imperishable food (Jn. 6:26-27). Jesus also told us to seek after the food that is imperishable and endures to eternal life. What many in the denominational world, in colleges, sciences, and philosophy classes offer changes constantly. Perhaps it may satisfy for a short time, but it does not satisfy the same way God's word will. Those kinds of mentalities are ever-changing because they look to man and his ideals to satisfy the soul. Only Christ offers us the bread of life (Jn. 6:48-51).

God's word does not change with the times and ideals of man. It never becomes outdated because it was made to last for eternity. It is not some passing fad that addresses a single generation. Thus, God's word and His church is not to be changed. We are to change and conform to His commands (Rom. 12:2).
