What's Next?

In just a few days everything becomes new again. It seems almost “magical” as the clock changes from 11:59:59 p.m. on December 31, 2014, to 12:00:00 a.m. on January 1, 2015. People all around the world stay up to watch it happen.

With the changing of one second, people feel refreshed as if to say, “last year is gone, and a new year full of new days is here.” Paul stated something very similar in II Corinthians 5 : 17, “old things have passed away; behold, all things have become new.”

Here at Pleasant Valley, things could not be more true. As every year passes there are changes, and with every new year an anticipation of what is to come.

Starting next Sunday, January 4, 2015, we will begin another chapter in our congregation. There will be new classes starting with new teachers. Our new yearly series, “The teachings of Jesus,” will begin shortly into the year.

However, I would be amiss if I didn't ask you, what's next in your life? What will 2015 bring for you? If you haven't been reading your bible daily, will you begin then? If you haven't been attending the bible studies provided, will you begin then? If you haven't been growing, will you begin then?

Remember the words of Paul, he wasn't speaking of a new year, but a new life in Christ. When will your new life begin?
