

Gospel Meeting Preparation

by Wayne Goff

he best thing that we can do right now to prepare for our Gospel Meeting next week is to invite someone. I suggested that each of us invite five people to the meeting, personally. If we would do that, then that would be the best advertisement of all, Acts 8:4.

The next best thing that we can do right now is plan to attend! We all have busy schedules and if we let things go as normal, then many of the members here will be missing one or more nights of the meeting. Since we cannot depend upon visitors to attend regularly because of the social distancing requirements, successful attendance depends upon us. Will you do all you can to attend every night?

Brett has prepared lessons for the church (Sunday morning, Thursday night), the family (Wednesday night), Christian living (Sunday night, Monday night), the plan of salvation (Tuesday night especially, but Monday night and Friday night as well), and Jesus Christ (Friday night). This is a good mix of lessons, and we can find something valuable in every lesson ourselves, and at least one for every potential visitor.

Be sure to pray for the success of the meeting, and for the safety of all who attend. Pray for our elders, pray for Brett, and pray for yourselves. May God give us wisdom, discernment, courage and faith that God's Word will not return to Him void.

Let us sow the seed, brethren!
